Excerpt from Improvement Era, Vol. 12: October, 1909 Though all knowledge is good and all truth valuable, yet, under certain conditions, some knowledge is more necessary than other knowledge. To the farmer, a knowledge of agriculture is most important; to the sea captain, a knowledge of navigation. He needs to know how to manage a ship, and cares very little about agriculture; while the farmer needs to know how to manage a farm, and cares little about navigation. This applies in all the affairs of life, the knowledge that enables a man to do what he has to do is the most important to him. This is also true in spiritual things. Jesus said, And this is life eternal, that they might know thee, the only true God, and Jesus Christ, whom thou hast sent. In that day the most important truth that men could know was that Jesus was the Christ. When many of his disciples became offended and left him, he turned to the Twelve and said, Will ye also go away? Peter said, To whom shall we go? Thou hast the words of eternal life. When asked, Whom say ye that I am? Peter answered, Thou art the Christ, the son of the living God. This knowledge was necessary to enable them to follow Christ and receive eternal life. Many of those who rejected Christ had more knowledge than those who received him. It was the common people who heard him gladly Nicodemus was a learned ruler, but he knew nothing of the new birth and he was astonished when he was told that, Except a man be born of water and of the spirit he cannot...
