Tata McGraw-Hill Education Pvt. Ltd., 2000. Softcover. Condition: New. 2nd edition. This thoroughly revised edition portrays the shift in the focus of financial management from raising of funds to utilization of funds, and its consequential importance in corporate decision making. The old and obsolete cases have been dropped, 2 new cases have been added, and the rest of the cases have been dropped, 20 new cases have been added, and the rest of the cases have been suitably updated and rewritten to reinforce this shift of emphasis. This book, divided into five parts, includes 57 cases, covering a broad spectrum of topics. The cases represent various industries and belong to different-size groups-both small and large companies to provide a wide coverage of different situations and problems faced by financial executives. The coverage and content would help students acquire factual, material and procedural skills and also in developing an ability to handle different types of financial problems analytically. Each case generally emphasizes one key issue for discussion in the class. This book is intended for students pursuing postgraduate studies in management, finance and control, and commerce and accountancy. It would provide hands-on experience to the students pursuing courses of Chartered Accountancy, Cost accountancy, Management accountancy, Company Secretaryship, Financial analysis and those offered by other professional bodies. The book would be useful to the financial executives, who wish to update their knowledge about recent thinking in financial management and to improve their ability of making the right financial decisions.
