Excerpt: . . . into the open space between the two lines of cadets and welcomes the guests of the day in a short speech in Swedish, of which the following is a translation: ADDRESS OF WELCOME OF NILS OLSSON. In behalf of the Swedish people, men, women, and children, I bid you, Consul Thomas, and all the gentlemen and ladies in your company, a cordial welcome to New Sweden, upon this tenth anniversary of the day when you led us into these woods. We Swedes feel grateful and not a little surprised that we are deemed worthy of a visit from so many of the most honorable citizens of Maine. For this visit, and for the many acts of kindness extended to us Swedes--although strangers in a strange land--by the State of Maine and its citizens, ever since we first crossed your borders, we now return our heartfelt thanks. The guests now alight from their carriages and pass between the files of Swedish cadets. Then Mr. Thomas replies to the address of welcome from the threshold of the capitol. The cadets march forward, form a line directly in front, and present arms. The colonists crowd around with eager interest. Mr. Thomas spoke in Swedish. The substance of his remarks translated into English is as follows: RESPONSE BY HON. W. W. THOMAS JR. Swedish colonists, my comrades in the woods of Maine, my countrymen, --from my heart I thank you for this royal reception to your guests of...
