Excerpt: . . . 11 RESEARCH and DEVELOPMENT Information security is not the only arena for enhanced cooperation in research and development. In the U. S. , federal government support for research and develop-ment has slipped substantially. In the aftermath of the Soviet Unions Sputnik launch, federal R and D funding of basic research swelled to 75 percent of all such 4 spending. Seventy cents of every R and D dollar now comes from the private sector. Federal R and D spending creates jobs for scientists and engineers directly and for pro-fessionals in business, law, accounting and many other fields indirectly. This sup-port also underwrites the development of valuable intellectual property that, through a process of technology transfer from the public domain to the private sec-tor, forms the basis of still more capital investment, job creation and wealth cre-ation. Federal funding for leading science and technology government agencies has also slipped. Increases in the federal R and D budget will fail to keep pace with inflation for...
