FOREIGN CROPS AND MARKETS, VOL. 30: MARCH 25, 1935 (CLASSIC REPRINT) (PAPERBACK)DOWNLOAD

FBC LTD, 2017. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand . Excerpt from Foreign Crops and Markets, Vol. 30: March 25, 1935 Except for increased sowings of winter wheat in the acre age changes in continental Europe are expected to be of little significance, Mr. Boals reports. Increases reported for some countries are expected to be offset by reductions in others. The Belgrade office, however, still estimates the winter acreage of the Danube Basin at acres, an increase of about 6 percent over the sowings for the 1934-crop. The preliminary estimates of winter-sown acreages in Germany, recently issued by the government, show declines for rye and wheat and increases for barley and rapeseed, which are in accordance with earlier indications of the probable trend of German acreages this season. They are also in line with the present policy of the government, which has favored an expansion in feedstuffs and oilseeds at the expense of bread grains. The preliminary estimates of fall - sown acreages in Czechoslovakia indicate an expansion in the area sown to winter cereals as compared with the acreage harvested in 1934. Compared with the preliminary estimate of sowings in the fall of 1933, however, a marked reduction in all the winter crops is noted. Since winter - kill and other damage seem likely to be above average this season, it is possible that the final estimate of fall seedings for harvest in 1935 will also show considerable deviation from the preliminary estimate.
