FBC LTD, 2017. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand . Excerpt from Monthly Report Offices of Forest Experiment Stations and Dendrology: March, 1926 The report on Forest Growth in the Central Rocky Mountains, embody ing all of the sample plot results available to date, as well as all other worthy contributions to the study of increment rates, was finished and forwarded to the Forester under the joint authorship of Bates and Roeser. At the end of the month Bates had sufficiently cleared his desk of routine matters to be able to turn to a critical re-examination of the its data and other evidence of the importance of soil chemistry in influencing the growth of trees. While it is not thought that anything conclusive has yet been shown which can be made of practical use, a thorough examination of the past experiments should point the way to a more systematic plan for the future and possibly lead to a parallel system of soil studies in some of the other regions, where soil variations cause a good deal of confusion in classifying sites, etc. About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books.
