Excerpt from Epworth University Bulletin; July 15, 1904, Vol. 1: Preliminary Announcements In nearly all Of the American commonwealths the church made provision for higher education before the state attempted to do so. In this one particular Oklahoma was an exception to the general rule. Settled in a single day in 1889, its people were, a few months later, clothed with the attributes and powers consonant with a large measure of self-government, including a landed endowment for the several higher institutions Of learning. The early establishment Of a university, an agricultural college and a normal school followed as a matter of course.
