She gets good grades, has troublemakers for friends, and a mystery filled past and ancestry. Rayne has heard stories of her ancestors and couldn't believe them, no matter how much she wanted to, until a large new family of eight mysterious people came to town. The Monts. Four of which transfer to Rayne's small high school and two to her little brothers. After meeting her new peers, strange things begin happening to Rayne and her brother, Oliver; she has weird dreams of the supposedly youngest of the high school newbies, Syrus, and starts seeing frightening images. Her brother is having dreams of the past, present, and supposed future, along with knowing everything that happened to Rayne, including the things she doesn't remember. Not only that, but his sweet, scared domineer changes drastically, creating problems within the family, and with Rayne's own life. An accident occurs and puts Rayne in a bizarre and unexplainable coma for almost a week, causing her to have more dreams of strange people. The same night she returns home from the hospital, she is awakened and kidnapped. Later to find out it was by the same people-or in this case animals- from her dreams and their leader isn't happy with the town's newest family. What did the Monts do that angered him? And why does he seem to follow Rayne? What will the terrifying new visitors do to get back at them? As Rayne's feelings for the two Monts' brothers grow, the changes she's going through become even more painful and uncontrollable. She does things to save others, even though she didn't know she could. And when her kidnapper comes...
