2001. Hardcover. Book Condition: New. 368 This is a book of events. It is not a chronological narration of events in the life of the author. It is a history of times, compressed in less than 400 pages and portrays how an individual can fight the system. The book is an authentic account by a police officer of Indian Police Service. About The Author:- Joginder Singh, retired from Indian Police Service after a distinguished career, spanning over 36 years. From a rural and humble beginning he rose to one of the top positions in the Government, as Director, CBI. He became known nationwide as a crusader, fighting against corruption in high places. He also held the posts like Director General of Indo-Tibetan Border Police, Central Industrial Security Force, Bureau of Police Research Development and Narcotics Control Bureau, apart from serving as Special Secretary in Union Home Ministry. He has also been Member of the Executive Committee of the Interpol in recognition of his dedication and professionalism. Now, his columns appear in leading periodicals as he is devoted to academic pursuits only. Contents:- Sweet and Bitter Memories, Selection in IPS, Police Academy Memorable days at Mount Abu, Beginning of the Career, Entering Family Life End of Bachelor, Policing the Police, Training the Police, Serving in Punjab, From Punjab to National Capital, In Karnataka Again, Heading youth Services, Back to Police Department, Posting in Commerce Ministry as Director Vigilance, Student Again, Some More Stints, Role as CBI Director, Life goes on, Index.
