After Dark is a collection of six short stories by Wilkie Collins, first published in 1856. It was the authors first collection of short stories. Five of the stories were previously published in Household Words, a magazine edited by Charles Dickens. . . . William Wilkie Collins (8 January 1824 23 September 1889) was an English novelist, playwright, and short story writer. His best-known works are The Woman in White (1859), No Name (1862), Armadale (1866) and The Moonstone (1868). The last is considered the first modern English detective novel. Born into the family of painter William Collins in London, he lived with his family in Italy and France as a child and learned French and Italian. He worked as a clerk for a tea merchant. After his first novel, Antonina, was published in 1850, he met Charles Dickens, who became a close friend, mentor and collaborator. Some of Collinss works were first published in Dickens journals All the Year Round and Household Words and the two collaborated on drama and fiction. Collins published his best known works in the...
