N., Vol. 10: Geology Yet this small area of land presents us with mountains feet in height; volcanoes of unrivalled magnitude; peaks, crags and gorges of Alpine boldness. And amid the wildness and grandeur of these scenes, many of which would well aid our conceptions of a world in ruins, the palm, the tree-fern, and other tropical productions flourish with singular luxuriance. Zoophytes, moreover, spread the sea - bottom near the shores with owers, and form islands with groves of verdure above, and coral gardens beneath the water. There is no part of the world where rocks, waterfalls and foliage are displayed in greater variety, or where the sublime and picturesque mingle in stranger combinations. These statements may seem incredible to those who have traversed only the surface of our own land; yet it will be in some degree comprehended when the agencies that have Operated to produce the results are considered - that through every part there has...
