In the year of our Lord 1420, during one of the many plagues that rose from the swamps and fed its appetite for the dead, a syphilitic fog slithered in from the swamps, crept like a stocking-footed thief along the back roads, wound its way through the gutters and city streets, nuzzled its face against the windowpane, sprang through a slender opening, and intermingled its breath with that of the sleeping. Thus begins the story of a grave robber Pietro who in 1420 defiled the grave of a Bishop. When he awakened he was chained to a large black dog Natas. The dog led him to a nearby battlefield. The dog would start to devour the corpses, but when Pietro intervened and cared for the wounded, the dog was quiet. For the next four hundred years, Pietro with dog wandered the battlefields around the globe caring for the wounded. Eventually, in this journey he discovers redemption.
