Univ Européenne, United States, 2016. Book. Condition: New. Aufl.. Language: French . Brand New Book. Les hépatopathies non virales représentent une entité à part dans le domaine de l'hépatologie. Elles se manifestent parfois sur le mode aigu parfois chronique mais elles conduiront sûrement vers une cirrhose qui est un ensemble lésionnel irréversible. L'étude a concerné 219 patients recrutés des différentes structures sanitaires de l'ouest algérien. Elle c'est déroulée de façon rétrospective allant de janvier 2007 à 2010 et prospective de 2011 à avril 2014. Tous nos patients ont bénéficié d'exams biologiques voir immunologiques et d'exams radiologiques, quand cela le permettait on a eu recours à une PBF. Tous nos malades ont été mis sous traitement et un suivi régulier a été réalisé. La moyenne de suivi a été de 34,6 Mois. L'objectif de notre étude était de préciser les caractéristiques épidémiologiques, cliniques, paracliniques et évolutives de chaque hépatopathie non virale, de rechercher l'existence d'éléments prédictifs de développer une cirrhose et de recenser les patients éligibles a une greffe hépatique. Nous avons identifiés dans ce travail quelques facteurs qui sont prédictifs de développer la cirrhose propres à chaque hépatopathies non virale.
