But the Hag remained, sunning itself. we continued to press at all points, skirmishing in dense forests of timber and across most difficult ravines, until we again found him strongly posted and intrenched, with Kenesaw as his salient, his right wing thrown back to cover Marietta, and his left behind Nose s creek covering his railroad back to the Chattahoochie. This enabled him to contract his lines and strengthen them accordingly. From Kenesaw lie could look down upon our camps and observe every movement, and his batteries thundered away, but did little harm on account of the extreme height, the shot and shell passing harmlessly over our heads as we lay close up...

Here is the finest ebook i have got read until now. It really is simplistic but excitement within the 50 percent in the book. Once you begin to read the book, it is extremely difficult to leave it before concluding.
