Excerpt: . is able to distinguish the four brands of champagne (of which he knows the names) in his father s cellar. Accordingly his father fills him a glass of each wine without allowing him to see the labels on the bottles, and requires him to name each variety. The boy gives the four names and gives each wrong. Determine in how many different ways he can do this, and in how many ways he could have named at least one right. 12. Prove the Binomial Theorem for a positive integral index. Employ it to show that, to the nearest pound, the interest on, 10,000 for 10 years at 2 per cent. compound interest per annum is 2190. II. PART I. Second Paper. N.B.--In questions on Geometry ordinary abbreviations may be employed, but the method of proof must be geometrical. Proofs other than Euclid s must not violate Euclid s sequence of propositions. In the absence of special directions to Candidates, any of the propositions within the limits prescribed for Examination may be used in the solution of problems and riders. 1. Name and define the different four-sided figures of which Euclid takes note. If the middle points of every pair of adjacent sides of a rhombus be joined, what is the four-sided figure so formed? Prove that your answer is correct. 2. Through a given point draw a straight line parallel to a given straight line. Construct a triangle, having given one angle and...
