Brand New Book ***** Print on Demand *****.Excerpt from Gustavus Adolphus in Germany, From the German, Vol. 2 It was Sunday afternoon toward the end of January in the year 1630. The stillness of winter reigned on the parks and streets of Stockholm; the fast-falling snowflakes veiled the outlook into the distance and brought a premature twilight, which was felt even in the apartments of the castle, although it occupied an elevated position. In muffled strokes the bells announced four o'clock, here and there in the village houses faint lights already began to glimmer. In the forepart of the castle with its beautiful view of the many cliffs and bays, far out to the breakers of the Baltic sea, we find the boudoir of the queen. Marie Eleanor was born a princess of Brandenburg, and for ten years had been the wife of Gustavus Adolphus, king of Sweden. Neither convenience nor politics, but genuine love had formed this union, and preserved it pure, sincere and holy, - a good model for the people of all ranks and classes.
