

War Fact Tests for Every American (Paperback)

By William H Allen

Createspace Independent Publishing Platform, United States, 2016. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand . An excerpt from the beginning of Part I. Why We Are At War. Because we could not longer either honorably or safely permit war to be waged against us without going to war ourselves. (1) For thirty-two months of this world war, August 1914 to April 1917, the United States-its people and its government-did their best to keep out of war. Our decision to go to war with all our might was not reached in angry haste, but after incessant discussion over nearly three years. (2) During all this time our government and the majority of our people resisted the appeals of many influential citizens and groups who insisted that for reasons here later stated, it was neither honorable nor safe for us to stay out of this war and that our most sacred ideals and obligations called upon us to enter the war with all our might against the aims and methods of Germany, Austria, Turkey and Bulgaria. (3) In this belief thousands of speeches were made, thousands of meetings were held, thousands of editorials were written. (4)...
