

The Black Arrow / a Tale of the Resistance

By Suprynowicz, Vin

Mountain Media, Las Vegas, Nev., 2005. Soft cover. Condition: New. No Jacket. Cover By Scott Bieser (illustrator). First Edition. "The portals are everywhere, now, scanning for weapons, for drugs, . . . no getting out of line. The people had forgotten how to fight back. There was no one to show them how. Or was there? . . . In the dark of the city's night, wherever the weak or oppressed cry out in pain or fear, a quiet footfall can be heard on the roof, the owlshadow passeth before the moon. The twang of the bow, the quiet gasp of feathered death . . . The Black Arrow lives." A tale of the resistance in a near-future American police state, first novel by the syndicated Libertarian columnist (author of "The Ballad of Carl Drega" and "Send in the Waco Killers,") freedom-oriented speculative fiction nominated for the 2006 Prometheus Award. New trade paperback direct from the publisher. Reduced from $19.
