Heather Harlow Books, United States, 2015. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand . In a futuristic world, where Earth's cities are still recovering from being ravaged by gang wars, cyber crime is at its peak and threatens the world's digitized monetary supply. Susan Caldwell is a newly hired security development manager at GTS, the company that controls the world's monetary supply and data. The sophisticated systems have been hacked and now people on Susan's team are being killed while they try to fix the breach. Susan trusts no man, but must rely upon the GTS CEO, Christoph Baldrick, to keep her safe. Little does she know that he is the Argon alien commander on Earth. She doesn't want a hookup with him, especially since she has plans. She is excited about her pending future, that is, if she is still alive. Christoph Baldrick's mission is to protect the Earth's humans and nurture them so that eventually his people can merge with the humans. Christoph's planet, Argon, was blown up when their major sun exploded into a black hole. The people of Argon have been studying and nurturing Earth for many millennia as a new, potential home. Now is the time to make Earth their home and begin merging with Earth's humans, making both races stronger. But first, they must save Earth from the Grogans, the Argon nemesis from their home universe, Baldrakon, who want to eliminate all life on Earth and take the planet for their own.
