Simmons College of Kentucky Press, 2003. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book ***** Print on Demand *****. In this new paradigm for the proclamation of the Gospel, Dr. Cosby examines twelve challenges that face all communities. He not only gives inspiring biblical examples of meeting those challenges, but also outlines practical ways that churches can make a difference in the lives of those they serve. While set in the context of the African American church, this book speaks to all churches that want to show the love of Christ to people in a real way. Through these pages you will find engaging sermons that are laced with sparkling intellectual thought and solid biblical exegesis. A great value of this writing is to be found in the Musings, which immediately follow each sermon and which require of the reader a more profound engagement with the written sermonic word and the contemporary meanings of the biblical text. Of even greater importance is his insistence on ministry that flows from the message. Here you will find clear and definitive ways for the preached word to become operative and significant in the life of the local congregation. The Ministries section of this writing is literally capable of transforming churches in terms of their programmatic design. Use these thoughtful suggestions and your church will never be the same! These are not sermons for the sake of writing sermons. They are sermons with purpose and intent to serve and edify the ministry and the church. Dr. Cosby's anointing leaps from the pages with astounding impact on the reader. This is a prophetic writing. It stands within that tradition that speaks on behalf of God a word that most of us did not want to hear. It is a challenging word that moves...
