Jacob Collamer: Read Before the Vermont Historical Society, October 29th, 1868 Mr. President, Ladies and Gentlemen: Although the official announcement of my appointment to the present service designated it as an eulogy, I see that the published official notice of this meeting announces me for An Address on the life and services of Hon. Jacob Collamer. I hence infer that a memorial, rather than an eulogic service will the better answer the proprieties, and meet the expectations of this occasion. And this may well be so; for Eulogy found free expression from eloquent and adequate tongues in the halls that had been honored by the presence and services of the illustrious dead, while the tear of present grief was dimming the eyes and moistening the cheeks of his surviving fellow senators and statesmen. It was emulously echoed by the many tongued press of the nation. It was worthily and touchingly repeated in these legislative halls by those commissioned to give utterance to the deep and universal grief, as well as to the unanimous and cordial well done, good and faithful servant, of our stricken, yea, doubly stricken State; for within the fleet four months, our Foot had followed our Collamer from their lofty eminence on earth, to the bourne beyond the bitter waters. The article before me is prepared as a sketch to be read, rather than an address to be delivered. While it is too brief for the subject, it is too long for the occasion. It is a kind of forced compromise between the subject and the occasion, and not entirely proper towards...
