When Judge Mulqueen was informed of these facts, he agreed with our agent that it was about time this boy had his chance, so he was released on probation, and has an excellent, well-paying position at the present time A country boy who had been but a few weeks in the city and was employed only one month as a clerk in a steamship office, told a strange story of how he had been inveigled into an attempt to commit the crime of blackmail. An older man met him in his place of employment and suggested that he knew an easy way to make some money. He said that he had learned that a certain rich waist manufacturer uptown had been guilty of certain dishonorable acts and would pay good money to keep them silent. So he induced the boy to write threatening letters to the man who made the complaint; answers were to be sent to a hotel. The older criminal was too cunning to call for the answers, and sent the unsophisticated boy to the hotel, where he was placed under arrest. He was advised to enter a plea of guilty and make a full confession, which he did. His previous record was investigated by mail, and it was found that he came from an excellent family and had never been in trouble before. An uncle in Pennsylvania came to the city, produced a certificate to show that the boy had served over...
