Excerpt from Brown Alumni Monthly, Vol. 50: March, 1920 Concerning the quadrangle at Brown University these days, there s a wonderful new sense of imminence. You can tell where the various buildings will be on that two-block plot just south of the present campus, what will be in them, and what they will look like. Competitive bids for the first three combination fraternity and dormitory buildings will be sought April 1, with the ground rapidly cleared for them. More and more buildings on George St. And Benevolent St. Are down or coming down. (as Judson House fell at the hands of wreckers more professional than the undergraduates , there were few tears.) The Relec tory, favored by an Open winter until February, looms higher above the street level on Thayer between George and Benevolent. And the detailed revelations to students and alumni have heightened the expectancy of all for this great step. You share that exhilaration as you look at our pictures this month.
