But he was safe for that time, and I, too: The argent angels in the altar-flare Absorbed his soul next moment. The good man! In England we were scarce acquaintances, That here in Florence he should keep my thought Beyond the image on his eye, which came And went: and yet his thought disturbed my life; For after that I oftener sat at home On evenings, watching how they fined themselves With gradual conscience to a perfect night, Until the moon, diminished to a curve, Lay out there like a sickle for His hand Who cometh down at last to reap the earth. At such times ended seemed my trade of verse: I feared to jingle bells upon my robe Before the four-faced silent cherubim. With God so near me, could I sing of God I did not write, nor read, nor even think, But sate absorbed amid the quickening glooms, Most like some passive broken lump of salt Dropt in by chance to a bowl of cenomel, To spoil the drink a little, and lose itself, Dissolving slowly, slowly, until lost. EIGHTH BOOK. One eve it happened, when I sate alone, Alone, upon the terrace of my tower, A book upon my knees to counterfeit The reading that I never read at all, While Marian, in the garden down below, Knelt by the fountain I could just hear thrill The drowsy silence of the exhausted day, And peeled a new fig from that...
