By Allen Tate

Forgotten Books, 2017. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book ***** Print on Demand *****. Excerpt from A Southern Vanguard: The John Pearle Bishop Memorial Volume This anthology is composed of stories, poems, and critical essays offered for the John Pearle Bishop Memorial Literary Prize Contest conducted between April 1 and September 15, 1945, by The Sewanee Review and Prentice - Hall, Inc. The prizes were awarded as follows: $200 to Andrew Lytle for his story, the guide; $200 to Malcolm Cowley for his essay, William Faulkner's legend of the south; and $100 to Randall Jarrell for his poem, The Marchion. The judges were Gorham Munson, Editor of the Trade Book Department of Prentice-Hall, Inc., and myself, who at the time of the contest was Editor of the Sewanee Review. The winning titles and a few others which are acknowledged elsewhere in this volume, were published in The Sewanee Review. Under the conditions of the contest non-Southern writers were invited to compete for the essay prize, provided their subjects were Southern; the entrants for the fiction and poetry prizes had to be of Southern birth or identified...
