This type of publication is every thing and helped me seeking ahead and much more. It usually fails to charge too much. It is extremely difficult to leave it before concluding, once you begin to read the book.

Excerpt from Voices From the Dead: A Sermon, Preached March 26, 1865, in the Citadel Square Baptist Church, Charleston, S. C., Before the 127th Regiment, N. Y. Vols The voices. From the dead of our - 127th N. Y. V. - regi ment, are many. True, our bill of mortality was com paratively small during the, last year previous to the eu trance upon our late expedition. Yet, we left our cluster of soldiers graves, seven in number, on Coles, and about the same number on Morris Island. The memory of those comrades, whom we quietly laid in their resting-places, far from their homes and the graves of their kindred, is still fresh in the minds and dear to the hearts of many of us; but dearer far to memories and the hearts of their loved ones at home. But by far the larger portion of our men who have left us, fell in active engagement with the enemy, and lie buried in the field where they fell. It is in accordance with the feelings and expressed wishes of some of the friends of our deceased, that I thus attempt the Improvement of this hour. And is it not meet that we should - in a summary manner, at least improve the Providence of God towards us Writes one from the banks of the Hudson: Perhaps, dear sir, it was asking too much of you, to make a few remarks upon that dear brother s sad fate. I have lost a father and a younger brother, and on both occasions our pastor offici ated; and I should be better satisfied if some service should be performed for this brother and I think it...
