Excerpt from The Titanic Disaster and the Spirit of the Master: A Sermon Delivered by Byron H. Stauffer in Bond Street Congregational Church, Toronto, Sunday Morning, April 21st, 1912 So the floating hostelry was hurrying on. Two thousand miles of sea had been cleared, the remaining thousand was but a holiday cruise. Land seemed near, for the news of the world was being snatched as it floated over the face of the deep, and messages of the voyagers progress were being despatched to friends on shore as easily as a telegram is sent to Toronto from a nearby junction point. The Sabbath was passed, and the evening was being spent as taste and discrimination prompted. Some lingered late at the dinner table; others at the card table. Some exercised in the gymnasium; others read in the library. Some listened to music or joined in the singing of familiar hymns; some had retired to rest.
