Lady Harriet Worthington s passions are strictly culinary. Little does she know that her new business partner, Lord Elias Westwood, and his highly sensual appetites are about to add romantic spice to her life. After weathering one philandering husband, Lady Harriet has no desire to wed again. She is happily independent, having inherited her late husband s share of a West Indies spice company. Lord Westwood, who founded the company, is at his wit s end. Lady Harriet has been selling off her shares to help her neighbors, until he is nearly ruined. He plots to win them back. But Elias s extraordinary gifts of smell and taste - so useful in judging fine spices - prove his Achilles s heel. He cannot resist Lady Harriet s culinary creations, or her feminine charms. When she maneuvers him into masquerading as her fiance for the Season, he never plans on falling in love.
