FBC LTD, 2017. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand . Excerpt from University Gazette, Vol. 10: McGill College; November 17th, 1886 There are various states which alike belong to this general description of mental slavery. It exists wherever any topic of thought is, what they call in Tahiti, tabooed, a phrase which, attention drawn towards that distant region, has rendered not nu familiar. Certain ruling classes in society have placed a religious restriction around particular objects of thought; they have warned the popular mind from off these regions, in order that they might the more effectually subdue it into subserviency to their own dictates. Whoever submits to be debarred from the investigation of any object of human interest, thereby confesses himself a slave - a mental slave. So also is that large class of people who, in a country like this, divided into parties, are so often found playing the game of Follow my leader - men who look not at principles, but persons; pinning their faith upon the sleeve of some one individual who has managed to ingratiate himself with them who denounce what he denounces, and praise what he praises; who look to him as a kind of fogleman, by whom it must be determined whether they shall shout or remain silent, whether they shall clamour for this or for that; who investigate not the principles upon which measures are founded, or the results to which they may lead, but who think it enough that the master has said that such measures must be adopted, thus making them selves his tools in the very worst sense of that word - following him wherever he may choose to lead, and elevating him upon their shoulders, it may be into the possession of...
