

Mommy, I m Scared : How TV and Movies Frighten Children and What We Can Do to Protect Them (Paperback)

By Joanne Ph D Cantor

Harcourt Books, Inc, United States, 1998. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand . It s 2 a.m. and your toddler, who spent the evening watching television with his ten-year-old sister, is having a nightmare. What s going on here? Isn t the plug-in drug of the 1960s -- now offering hundreds of channels and a rating system -- a treasured family friend? Far from it. Joanne Cantor, an expert on children and media and a parent herself, offers a wake-up call to parents, teachers, and child-care providers that monitoring what enters their homes is now, more than ever, a genuine obligation. Based on her years of research and her experience as a parent, Cantor offers lots of real-life examples to help readers understand what children are capable of viewing safely. What s more, Cantor offers friendly advice on how to allay fears for different age groups. Realistic -- television can be a good thing and, let s face it, it s here to stay -- reassuring, authoritative, Cantor is unrelenting in her quest to refine a rating system and offer children the best protection possible from the life-time of anguish that a misplaced...

READ ONLINE
[6.16 MB]

Reviews

The publication is great and fantastic. I am quite late in start reading this one, but better then never. I discovered this pdf from my dad and i suggested this ebook to discover.

-- Linnie Kling

A brand new eBook with a brand new standpoint. I could possibly comprehended everything out of this composed e publication. Your life span will likely be enhance once you total reading this pdf.

-- Willa Ritchie