THE CASE AGAINST THE INTRODUCTION OF THE CHINAMAN. That it is very unwise to over-state a case is admitted by all good lawyers, yet this would seem to be the error made both by those who advocate and those who oppose the introduction of Chinese unskilled labour into South Africa. It is as absurd to claim that the status of the Chinese coolie employed in the gold mines of the Witwatersrand under the terms of the Ordinance passed by the Transvaal Legislative Council and confirmed by the Imperial Parliament, will be that of a slave, as it is to say that the future of the mining industry and with it the progress and development of South Africa depends upon this form of labour. The cry of slavery has been raised as an excellent one with which to appeal to the people...
