Forgotten Books, 2017. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand . Excerpt from Semi-Monthly Honey Report, 1943: Information From Producing Areas East of Cascades. The winter so far has been mild with considerable rain and some snow. Consequently moisture conditions are favorable for the early bloom. Weather has kept most bees confined to the hives, but the few bees which did fly showed that flights are badly needed. Where bees had sufficient stores they are wintering well; but many colonies will need feeding in the spring. Beekeepers would like to see more alfalfa and clover acreage to help honey production. Some new land is being seeded to hay due to higher prices for hay, but these new crops will not benefit the bees before 1944. The production of mint in eastern Washington is spoiling some bee pasture. No mint nectar ruins the honey for table use and to a certain extent for baking also. The demand for honey is good, but supplies are light, very little honey remaining in the producers hands or on grocers shelves. A few sales of 5 - 1b. Pails by bee keepers are reported at per pail retail and 72¢ per pail wholesale, Occasional sale of No. 1 comb honey, $4.00 per case.
