Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from The Address of the Society of Constitutional Republicans These, then, fellow-citizens, are the pretexts for raising an artificial tempest, in a season of calm and fruitful prosperity. With these pretexts, men deranged by Utopian theories or corrupted by foreign arts; men, formed turbulent by nature, or become so from necessity; men, who delight in confusion, and subsist upon defamation idlers, without social attachments and politicians by trade gathering their scanty numbers into a malignant circle, have scattered envy and malice, fear and suspicion, throughout the land. It was not to be expected, that, indulging a more than Gothic fury, for the demolition of our public institutions, the Malcontents would permit the venerable man (who had long laboured for their establishment and preservation), to close his patriotic life in peace. His services and his renown are, indeed, coeval with the dawn of American independence for, he is among the few (the lamentably few) surviving members of the illustrious Congress of 1765; and in every vicissitude of the war of 1776, he was the firm and efficient...
