SUPPORTING THE COMMUNICATION DEVELOPMENT OF CHILDREN AND ADOLESCENTS WITH AUTISM SPECTRUM DISORDER

Karger Verlag Dez 2017, 2017. Taschenbuch. Condition: Neu. Neuware - As each child with Autism Spectrum Disorder (ASD) is unique, so are their individual strengths and challenges in communicating and interacting with the world around them. Speech-language pathologists (SLPs), working together with parents, teachers, and other health and education professionals, have a critical role in supporting these children's spoken and written communication development. The research findings discussed in this new publication will help to improve effective assessment and intervention practices....
