The best we can do is to live worthy lives, and try to keep green the memories of those who did so little for themselves and so much for us. R. B. Anderson. The above beautifully expressed sentiment, so appreciative of the simple but earnest lives of the pioneer immigrants is a most appropriate eulogy, tendered worthy subjects. - They who did so little for themselves and so much for us - simple words, yet so rich - so full of meaning. Conscious of our debt of gratitude, and desirous to keep green the memories of ancestors who were worthy members of that band of pioneer immigrants, we have gathered material for these historical sketches and memoirs. It has taken much time and a voluminous correspondence, extending over several years. The lives of our immediate ancestors were cast in pioneer days. They were not writing history - they were making it, leaving it for others to preserve the records. This, I am sorry to say, has been sadly neglected, and how much is irretrievably lost, the pickings up of fragmentary bits of data often coloured and distorted by traditional transmission and - sifting out the facts, is a work requiring both time and patience; at best it can only approximate...
