Argo House, 2016. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book ***** Print on Demand *****.When six migrants are massacred in the California border desert, crime reporter Ray Myers discovers babies had traveled with them, babies now missing. This installment of the Ray Myers thriller series was inspired by true events of murder involved in the transportation of smuggled Asian infants for sale into the United States. As Myers infiltrates the underworld of human trafficking, unexpected twists and the compassion of one smuggler stand to threaten as well as aid the reporter as chaos erupts inside the tight-knit trafficking ring. Leads taking Myers across the border into the badlands of Baja do not escape the smuggling kingpin, a deranged and now desperate ICE administrator who forms grievous plans for the meddling reporter. White-knuckle suspense in this gritty thriller is acted out by an ensemble of sometimes savage, often humorous and romantic, and always realistic characters. Tragedy, murder and intrigue intertwine a fast-paced plot with unexpected twists and lively nuances to crime, true love and mayhem as Myers treks, wounded, through the seamy streets of Ensenada and into the land of an ancient Indian tribe in his search for the missing babies. Library Journal says of Baby Love, Argo s dramatic and gripping tale also manages to tug at your heartstrings. Readers cannot help but feel invested. Highly entertaining . Readers will enjoy the huge, unexpected plot twists. An engaging mystery that delves into the visceral greed that drives human behavior. --Kirkus Reviews This exciting, plot driven novel with all its twists and turns and colorful cast of characters would rivet thriller movie audiences, another of those books you can t put down once you get started . Argo gives readers many realistic characters to both love and hate. - Readers...
