

Living in Shadow and Light: The Harrowing Story of a Woman Who Survived Domestic Violence Showing You How to Help Your Loved One Overcome Battered Woman Syndrome (Paperback)

By Roxanne Whatley

Hartemedia Worldwide, United States, 2015. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Roxanne Whatley was in an abusive marriage so devastating she only escaped death because she has an odd anomaly from birth, otherwise her skull would have cracked open when her husband threw her out of their speeding car. Determined to become a survivor, and not stay a victim, she sought answers to the questions that plague us all when it comes to domestic violence and spousal abuse. Her research took her into psychology, biology, philosophy and anthropology - the varied studies of us as human beings. Then she began working with other women and men who were trying to break free from their own abusive relationships. Her work has encompassed the last twenty years, helping hundreds of women and families find their healthy, and find their safety, from domestic violence. She healed herself along the way, and calls the process learning to live in shadow and light. Domestic violence needs the silence and darkness to thrive, it feeds on secrecy. In the light of day it is diminished. Those who have been abused need the shadow of their safety, the skill of...
