Since Zimmer Spanish is the dominant variety grown in this region, and the results obtained with it will be more directly applicable to the culture of tobacco in the Miami Valley, this variety was chosen for these experiments. The results of this test are given in Table VIII. In addition to the above test it was thought advisable to repeat the method of the previous year on some of the more promising hybrids at the Station. Three plots planted respectively to hybrids 77, 81 and 89 were chosen for this experiment, and the first cutting was made at the time when, judged by the usual observational method, the tobacco was thought to...
