Excerpt from Women Wanted: The Story Written in Blood Red Letters on the Horizon of the Great World War I hear it yet, the ringing challenge from the war Offices Of Europe. Automatically my hand slides over my left hip. But today my tailored skirt drapes smoothly there. The chamois bag that for months has bulged be neath is gone. As regularly as I fastened my garters every morning I have been wont to buckle the safety belt about my waist and straighten the bag at my Side and feel with careful fingers for its tight Shut clasp. You have to be thoughtful like that when you re carrying credentials on which at any moment your personal safety, even your life may depend. As faithfully as I looked under the bed at night I always counted them over: my letter Of credit for my blue enveloped police book, and my pass port criss-crossed with vises in the varied colours Of all the rubber stamps that must Officially vouch for me along my way. Ah, they were still all there. About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books. Find more at This book is a reproduction of an important historical work.
