In politics Mr. McGeeney was a democrat and one of the active workers in party ranks. Fraternally he was connected with the Eagles and he was a charter member of Holy Family Court No. 1 of the Catholic Order of Foresters and was identified with several other organizations. Mr. McGeeney was widely known, enjoying the friendship and kindly regard of many with whom he was brought in contact. He was very successful in business, as is shown in the fact that in the course of his active career he was able to accumulate enough to erect the building on Madison street which his widow still owns and which brings to her a very gratifying rental. RICHARD CONOVER LAKE. Richard Conover Lake, whom the easily discernible steps in an orderly progression have brought to a prominent and enviable position in financial circles in Chicago, is the son of James and Hannah (Dye) Lake and was born on a farm in Montour county, Pennsylvania, July 20, 1846. The public schools of his native state afforded him his early educational privileges, which, however, were supplemented by private instruction and personal study. Moreover, a receptive mind has enabled him to glean valuable lessons from the school of experience and to adapt his knowledge to the demands and needs of the workaday world, wherein his persistent purpose and intelligently directed energy have achieved success. The first position that he filled that gave indication of his ability and proved the...
