Excerpt from The Commemoration of the Founding of the House of Chickering and Sons Upon the Eightieth Anniversary of the Event, 1823-1903 Hancock had learned to write; I was in the school where Sam Adams had learned Latin. I was only nine years old, but I was a part of the concern; I was counted in; I was one of us; I was one of we; and from that moment to this moment I have been glad that I trained in the company and was not fighting on my own hook.
