

My Homeland on Song Hua Jiang: Dr. Francis Wang's Autobiography (Chinese Edition)

By Francis Wang

EHGBooks. Paperback. Condition: New. 290 pages. Dimensions: 9.0in. x 6.0in. x 0.7in. In the far northeastern part of China (Manchuria), the well-known 1900-km long Song Hua Jiang flows through the heartland of Manchuria. Originating in the Ever-White Mountain region near the Sino-Korean border, it passes through a village in Kirin Province where my parents were born. My father was truly a Manchurian while my mother was a Han. They gave life to me so I could write this autobiography Song Hua Jiang and share my story with you, my readers. My tale starts in 1946, soon after the end of World War II, when as a little boy, I travelled home from Beijing to Manchuria with my mother and sister. The civil war in Manchuria between Chinese Nationalists and Communists had just begun and I saw the fighting first hand. I will describe in Part I of the book the war wounds and the rubbles left as well as the atrocities committed by the Russian troops in Manchuria. As the civil war heated up and accelerated subsequently, like a rolling thunder at unbelievable speed, the Nationalists were defeated in 3 years. As a result, we all had to flee the mainland...
